MONTHLY NEWSLETTER - JUNE 2019

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Dear Parents,

My cousin was out on a bus ride with her young one. That day, she tried using that journey as an opportunity to prepare her little one to travel independently and safely in the future by pointing out to the different landmarks and other places she would encounter via the ride home. Once they disembarked, she asked her daughter, “So what all did you see?” and out comes the reply, “Every cloud was shaped so differently; that man near the restaurant was selling the most beautiful balloons; there was a puppy running behind the cycle...” Her observations of the real world were endless.

Where an adult looks for facts, it's the child's eyes which catch the real essence of the moment. It is with that realization; we have taken the first step to hand over the baton to our children to describe every event that is experienced by them.

So dear parents, explore our events through the eyes of our best, our children...

Looking ahead...

With best regards,

Rashmi Nagendra

Principal, Ambassador Kindergarten

EDITOR'S NOTE

It's been a satisfying and enriching First term with loads of activities and events to build up our students' confidence, enquiry, social skills and learning. Each one focused on questioning skills, explorative personality, 'keep doing till you get it' attitude, understanding and application based learning. To go a step further, we called upon our 'little' ones with 'big' ideas to work collaboratively and pen down their thoughts through write ups, illustrations and pictures on all that they witnessed in school, hence we have rechristened our newsletter in a very novel way- 'Our Voice' (sautona) (انتوص). With immense pleasure we look forward to see successful personnel in the making. So dig into and gain an insight of our happening Term 1 through our students' eyes. Happy Reading and a refreshing Summer break to one and all!

WOW MOMENT

A WOW moment for a teacher is an unexpected gesture from the class that really takes you by surprise and brightens up your day. For me also it was a moment to realize how far children have come up within such a short span of time when they could actually speak confidently on their research projects. They were so much more assertive and articulate.

All the children spoke with clarity and confidently about their research works. They shared some interesting facts, asked questions and responded to questions posed by their peers, patiently. Thank you parents, for encouraging your children, researching on the given topics jointly and creating lovely piece of information as well as helping them to present the same.

It is indeed great to watch children grow as independent learners ready to move ahead.

“It was a busy day and during “fruit time” my children saw me sitting on a chair with my head down, suddenly there was silence in the class and that very moment one of my students approached me and asked as to why I was sitting like this. When I said that I am not feeling well she immediately started pressing my head and said “Ma’am I am sure you will feel better now, because when I do this to my mom she always starts feeling better”. She added to it by saying that as I love my mom, I also love you ma’am.

That incident was so heart touching, that whenever I feel tired I am reminded of that child of mine.”

ISLAMIC WEEK

Islamic Week

In Ramadan we all go for prayer to the mosque. Mummy, daddy and me.

Alizah (KG 1 G)

Islamic week

We celebrated Islamic week in Ramadan. Babel Mera told us about the holy months of Ramadan. Also we visited the mosque. I learned how to pray in the mosque. We donated old cloths to the poor children in the mosque. On Monday all my terms passed and on the next day Sunday I prayed the salah. Sharing is caring so we gave a quite bag with chocolates to drive away our bad luck. We learn about Islamic values all over the week.
