MONTHLY NEWSLETTER - NOVEMBER & DECEMBER 2019

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Dear Parents,

I hope you enjoyed our Annual Sports day, as much as we enjoyed putting it up for you!

It was indeed a beautiful learning experience throughout our planning period for our Sports Day, this year. This being 'The year of Tolerance', we decided to plan our races around the countries that our classes were named after. When we started our research process it was fascinating to see that almost all games are played across all countries, it is just that it is called differently and with a slight change in the resources used. 'Marble shooting/ Goli' in India is played as Maa Keaw in Thailand, Gilli danda is similar to 'Gudu' in Sri Lanka, the spinning top game is called as 'Beigoma' in Japan and our evergreen 'Lagori' is similar to 'Gorodki' in Russia.

We may come from different parts of the world with our varied languages, cultural practices, food preferences and so on; but there is one string that binds us together through our differences and that is 'Humanity'. Not to forget that 'Tolerance' is the main ingredient that works wonders to create that harmony in humanity.

Looking ahead...

Wish you and your family Merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year!

With best regards,

Rashmi Nagendra

Principal, Ambassador Kindergarten

EDITOR'S NOTE

“Good morningggg Dubai!”

Every Tuesday morning rings out a loud shout from our very own Kinder Radio station! It's amazing to see our little Ambassadors turn into confident Radio Jockeys to conduct a fun-filled and entertaining radio show for all those connected within AKG as well as our keen followers! Someday these little voices shall turn into the voice of the world! The month of November had been bubbling with scientific temper and analytical skills in the STEAM week; a national fervor embedded in our little ones with the UAE flag day celebrations; students at Holding Hands had a glimpse of various possibilities of modifications at the Expo accessibility 2019! Loads of fun and masti brought in happiness and smiles on the Children's Day; the Wow Moments by our teachers while the Sports day got us all pumped up in a competitive spirit through the month! While December continued from getting serious with budding makers and creative entrepreneurs into the enjoyment with the festive mood of Christmas! All this and much more.....as the learning continues!

Happy Reading! Merry Christmas and a Prosperous New Year!

WOW MOMENT

I am a LSA in Ambassador Kindergarten. Working in a Kindergarten with the tender aged young ones is an experience of all kinds. Sometimes a roller coaster and sometimes a smooth sailing and everything in between.

I am a teacher who visits different classes and am greeted with warmth by teachers and students who I work with or not. Sparkling eyes of children, peals of laughter, welcome greetings, unexpected hugs, lots of compliments is not uncommon. It's the warmth in all these that makes up the first 'W' in the WOW.

However, as I was penning my experience down, there are two experience that came to my mind. The first one goes like this. I worked with a child closely for 4 months. He was a nonverbal child in autism spectrum. He was a warm and affectionate child. I would often wonder what could he be thinking of me? However, one day his mom answered my thoughts. She said that there were very few persons with whom the child connected and I was one of them. This definitely meant a lot. The mother gave words to her son's feelings and it made me feel great. Words of appreciation makes the other 'W' in the WOW Last but not the least "O" stands for how one can feel "overwhelmed" working with little ones. I was overwhelmed when in the outdoor a child once pointed to me and told his teacher. "I know this teacher; she is so kind to my friend. She used to come to our class last year." That was a WOW as it was more than a statement, a testimony of all the best that we try to do for our students.

Being with young ones I learn, I unlearn, I am overwhelmed observing how they play, care and bond together. I can conclude and say that being with these little ones is a WOW experience in itself.

Be a Bucket Filler!

To spread the kindness in the class, the bucket filler activity was introduced this month. Any child who use kind words, compliments other child, helps his or her friend, shares things, help in their class work and many acts may fill their bucket with a note strip. Initially children did not take initiative, but the incentive was given of playing outdoors. I noticed one student sharing her board and marker with her classmate. I told her to fill her bucket. This encouraged others to do more often. Ms. Manjeet and I notice even the smallest action and tell the children to fill their buckets. Now slowly children started to fill their bucket by random act like being helpful, holding the door for others, reading a book for someone or writing a thank you note.

Technology is changing our world but I believe in teaching kindness is important than ever. I started this activity hoping that my students had a positive take away. As an educator we need to empower our children to feel good about themselves and to help others feel good about themselves. Bucket filling is something which everyone can do and practice every day with conscious effort. Kindness should be a part of their habit.

Wish to keep the kindness going in the class for long!

HOLDING HANDS- VISIT TO THE EXPO ACCESSIBILITY!

Kirze Saad Holding Hands - visit to the Expo accessibility

We went to expo accessibility
 we saw fizically challenged people and how they could do their work without their hands and legs. They were using other body parts to do work.
 we played games with them
 we will like to support them
 by making flexible wheelchairs.
